

Jerzy Szabela MD

Graduated from the Medical Academy in Lublin in 1988.

He began his professional career in the Regional Specialist Hospital of Tuberculosis and Lung Diseases in Kielce. He then worked at the General Surgery and Oncology Department of the Hospital in Czerwona Góra, where through various positions he obtained both first and second degree of specialization in General Surgery.

Since 2001, he has been the deputy director of treatment at the Provincial Specialist Hospital for Tuberculosis and Lung Diseases. Afterwards he was the director of the St. Rafal Provincial Specialist Hospital.

In the meantime he graduated in Hospital Management and Public Health Administration at the Faculty of Health Sciences at the Jagiellonian University in Cracow.

Since then, he has started his advisory business by participating in several restructuring of hospitals. He has also recently worked for the AMG Group, helping to reorganize the hospital in Rawa Mazowiecka. His professional activity connected him with the District Hospital in Chmielnik and Włoszczowa.

In the years 2008 - 2015 he was lecturer at the Faculty of Health Sciences of the Institute of Public Health of the Jagiellonian University.